ASS'N HAS PROFITABLE MEETING

Several From Waukegan and Other Places Were in Attendance

BOARD EMPLOYEES RUSSELL

Last Monday evening several prominent men from Waukegan together with the various supervisors who are members of the Road and Bridge committee and Chas. Russell county superintendent of Highways were entertained by George B. Johnson at a game dinner after which they attended the joint meeting of the Village Board and the Antioch Commercial Association.

A large crowd turned out to this meeting and everyone seemed most enthusiastic over the prospects of better roads for this vicinity.

Supervisor George Baird as Chairman of the Road and Bridge committee in the open meeting offered the association the use of the County road outfit as long as they were in need of it. In making this offer he was backed by the hearty endorsement of Supervisor Brown of Round Lake and Supervisor Ringdahl of Highland Park and Hollister of Waukegan, all members of the committee.

The Village board employed Mr. Russell to take up the preliminary work of surveying and to make an estimate of the cost per foot to each property owner to extend the pavement to the curb on each side of the state road.

The Antioch Commercial association road fund committee have now passed the $4,000 mark in the work of soliciting funds for road improvement.

There are still a number of persons who have not as yet been interviewed. The committee has a list of all names and no one will be passed by. If the committee has not yet called upon you, make an effort to see the solicitors in charge of your district, for they will trail you up anyway before publishing the list of names of all who contributed to this good work.

The solicitors are:
North District—Frank Kandlik, Chas. Sibley.

Business District—E. E. Brook, Geo. B. Johnson.

Southern District—H. Vos, P. O. Hawkins.

Beach Grove District—R. Tarrant, Wm. Smythe.

Grass Lake District—R. Pregoner, Butch Rothers.

To boost for the Antioch Township road is to boost for the team with the heavy load.

To help the team its burden to move shows the kind of a man you're bound to prove.

Join the Antioch Commercial Association and help boost.

Bingham Will Appear Here Next Saturday Evening

It is said of Ralph Bingham, who is coming to Antioch Saturday evening on the Redpath Lyceum course that "If humor be a gift of the gods there was a mighty deal of titling when Bingham was born." He is a humorist of the highest order, because your soul laughs with his own. In his mind are all the bright colors of universal fancy. In his heart is the glow of the cherished fireside. His evenings on the platform are as clean as new leaves in the forest, and you come away as from an Eden of rest, where brooks have sweetly sung.

Auto Violations as Numerous as Beer Cases

Violations of the new state law providing a heavy fine and imprisonment for any one who breaks through or passes around a barricade put up where road work is in progress, are piling up in the county and threaten to become more numerous than the famous beer running cases. If States Attorney Welch prosecutes all the cases that are being referred to him by Chas. Russell county superintendent of highways, in the cases of people who are using the naval station road where re-surfacing is in progress, he will have an all winter job.

Mr. Russell turned over the first batch of violations to Welch last Saturday, he had an additional list Sunday and still more on Monday.

PEACE PROGRAM PLANNED

Enrollment is a Vote of Confidence in the Future and an Appreciation of Tasks Accomplished.

The American Red Cross is preparing to launch its third Roll Call, to be held from Nov. 2 to 11, for 20,000,000 annual members and $15,000,000.

The first question that will arise is: "Why does the Red Cross need money? The war is over."

National headquarters of the American Red Cross has answered this question, and has outlined graphically the reasons why it is necessary to raise $15,000,000 for its international, national and local work.

In brief the answer is as follows: Because: The actual war work is not completed. The Red Cross cannot lay down its responsibilities to the American soldiers, sailors or marines until everyone of them has been released from service, recovered from illness or wounds or receiving proper care, or back in the place in the world from which the war snatched them.

Because: The American Red Cross is planning to launch a comprehensive program for peace times, designed to prevent the needless waste of human lives through preventable diseases and accidents in America; continue and broaden its home service work and public nursing, first aid, home hygiene and Junior Red Cross activities.

Because: By a recent act of Congress medical, surgical and dietary food supplies valued at $35,000,000 were turned over to the Red Cross by the government, the supplies having been purchased for use with the American forces. These supplies are scattered throughout Europe, many of them far from the places where they are most needed. The prompt and efficient distribution and handling of these supplies means the maintenance of a force of trained workers where the supplies are and where they are most needed.

Because: Pestilence and starvation have gripped many European countries because of the war. These countries are unable to cope with their own difficulties, and the only force organized with facilities capable of stepping into the breach and bringing order from chaos is the Red Cross. Typhus is sapping the man strength of many countries, and the American Red Cross is using every available power to check it.

Because: The Red Cross must be prepared to meet emergencies arising from disasters at home and abroad.

The Red Cross membership must be maintained at its present high standard. Every enrollment is a vote of confidence in the past performances of the American Red Cross and a reaffirmation of the belief in the principles for which it has stood in the past and its plans for the future.

The Red Cross, having committed itself to a definite and comprehensive program, cannot turn back, and to go forward it must have as general a membership as possible and ample funds to provide for any contingency.

He Ran Store Only in Evening—Now Winds Up

Fred Battershall, employed at the Hewes garage in Waukegan, and for twenty eight years a successful merchant in Grayslake, on Saturday closed his store to the public and his son-in-law, M. E. Shaffer, is to reopen the store very shortly and operate it himself. Mr. Battershall for some time has conducted his store in a rather unique way. He has been employed at the garage for some time and evenings would leave there about six o'clock, going to Grayslake where he would open the store and keep it open during the evening. The doors were locked day, the novelty of having just an evening store at Grayslake worked out successfully according to Mr. Battershall.

It was probably the only exclusively evening operated store ever conducted in the state.

Wauconda Road Will Give Subscribers Bonds

The Wauconda-Palatine railroad is going to issue bonds to the people who came to its rescue a few years ago. Next Tuesday at 1:30 at the village hall these bonds will be turned over to the people who invested. The case of Mr. Foster of Waukegan, procuring the tax title to the railroad property is being taken to the supreme court on a writ of error.

At the meeting Tuesday, four things will be brought before the note holders: First, a financial statement will be made by the note holders' committee; second, officers of the road will give the financial report covering their work since they took charge; fourth, a conference will be held as to the future policy of the road.

FARMERS IN FAVOR OF ORGANIZING

Would Benefit Both Producer and Consumer Is Claim of Mr. Sconce

JOIN FARM BUREAUS NOW

A National Organization of farmers, built from the farm up was launched in Chicago November 12, 13 and 14. This temporary organization represents 500,000 men who own or operate farms in 34 states and are members of county farm bureaus. Illinois has 74 county farm bureaus and the farmers of the counties run their farm bureaus. The members of these farm bureaus started the Illinois Agricultural Association which is their state business organization located in Chicago. It was the I. A. A. and other similar state organizations that started the National Farm Bureau Federation.

These farmers coming from all corners of the United States want a real farmers organization, with a membership of bonafide farmers with brains, power and money enough to really represent and promote their big business. They want an organization that will stand for Americanism while it is doing these things.

A constitution was agreed upon by these states and as soon as 10 states ratify it, the executive committee will call a meeting for March 3, at which time the organization will be made permanent. The membership of the organization will be State Farm Bureau Associations. The membership is $250 to $1000 per state, to be set by the executive committee. In addition each state shall pay in 10% of the fees received by farm bureaus from farmers. In the case of Illinois there are 35,000 farm bureau members paying $10 each, making $35,000 the Illinois Agricultural Association would pay in. Each state will have one director and one additional director for each 20,000 paid up membership in the state association. The executive committee which is elected by directors, is composed of three men in each of four sections of the country, northeastern, southern, middlewestern and far western, and not more than one man from any one state.

H. J. Sconce of Vermillion county, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association and executive for Illinois on the National Federation outlined the work of the Federation as in his address of welcome. Mr. Sconce said the things to keep uppermost in mind is that the farm business is a producing and selling business and not a buying business. He advised getting laws giving the farmers the right to market co-operatively.

"Farmers must have the right to co-operate and sell the products of their labor. This will not only insure us a profit but it will decrease the cost to the consumer. We must work for a stabilization of markets and food prices, reducing the wild fluctuation of grain and live stock markets, by controlling the flow of these products to the markets. We should assist the Government in perfecting a reliable crop reporting system for the entire world, we must find out what the world needs and produce it."

"We should insist that a federal board be created to advise the making of contracts with this or any other Government for food products, thereby disposing of a part of our products by contract price which would help to stabilize the price on the remainder. The great idea should be to control our food products until they get much closer to the ultimate consumer than they do at the present time."

"We shall organize, not to fight any one or to antagonize but to co-operate and construct, managing the affairs of business agriculture in a broad business manner. The farmer was left out at the Industrial conference in Washington and yet his business is the most important of all."

The 400 farmers that talked these things over displayed a unity of spirit of Americanism and loyalty.

WILL SOON START CENSUS

Every Home in the United States Will be Visited and Data Obtained

ALL INFORMATION SECRET

The Government is now preparing to take what is known as the Fourteenth Decennial Census, and for that purpose test examinations have been held for enumerators to conduct the work of obtaining the information this Census requires.

The entire United States has been divided into Districts, each of which has a supervisor to organize and carry forward this work. The Second District of Illinois comprises all the cities, towns, villages and farms in Cook county, outside of the City of Chicago, and the whole of Lake county up to the Wisconsin line. The district has been divided into 285 enumerator's districts, and the work will begin on Jan. 2, 1920, and it is expected, to be completed within two to four weeks. This will be the most comprehensive and important Census that the Government has yet undertaken. Everything alive on Dec. 31, 1919, as well as every farm, animal and product, is to be named and recorded in the enumerator's schedule. Every home, every farm and every Charitable, Benevolent or Fraternal institution in the district will be called upon for this information down to the smallest detail. The names, ages, occupations, nativity, color, language spoken of each inhabitant must be obtained as well as the mother tongue of the father and mother, of the householder and his wife. In like manner, everything connected with or pertaining to, the farm is called for in the agricultural schedules.

The enumerators charged with obtaining this information, are men and women who have qualified for this work and received their authority from the Secretary of Commerce and the Director of the Bureau of Census at Washington. They should be met with ready answers to the questions they are required to ask, because it is the law of the land that true and accurate replies should be given every inquiry, failing which, or making any false statement, incurs a heavy penalty according to the Act of Congress providing for the 14th Decennial Census passed and approved March 3, 1919.

None should hesitate in giving this information for fear the facts required should reach neighbors or taxing bodies as the enumerators are under oath to make returns only to the proper officials of the Census Bureau and to none other. The enumerators are instructed to be polite, courteous, patient and civil, and in so doing are entitled to the respect and consideration of all called upon in the discharge of their duties.

Public Service Company to Help Save Coal

Last Monday formal notices were sent to all the plants of the Public Service Company instructing those in charge to cut all the electric signs which the company operates for advertising purposes. This course is adopted as a means of saving the coal. It is said that the big plant in Waukegan has only sufficient coal to last for about two weeks.

Judge Donnelly is Reported to be on the Gain

Judge Charles H. Donnelly, who was stricken suddenly while presiding in the circuit court at Woodstock Friday afternoon, was reported to be greatly improved Monday and was able to be up and around in the afternoon.

Because of his advanced age it was feared that the attack might result seriously.

RECRUITING LISTS OPEN

Every Local Chapter Will Enlist Men and Women to Obtain Annual Memberships From November 2 to 11.

Two hundred and fifty thousand volunteer workers will be needed in the Central Division to conduct the third roll call of the American Red Cross, November 2 to 11.

An appeal is made from Central Division headquarters in Chicago calling upon the men and women of every community to enlist for the ten-day campaign to secure dollar annual memberships. With approximately 600 chapters in the division, this number will allow for about 400 workers to a chapter. Every chapter will be a recruiting office for these workers.

Workers Will Wear Badges. Each worker will be supplied with a badge proclaiming that the wearer is a volunteer worker for the Red Cross. The success of the campaign will, in reality rest upon the shoulders of these volunteer workers, as the third roll call cannot be a success without a complete organization.

The purpose of the campaign is to obtain, as nearly as possible, a universal enrollment in the Red Cross as an expression of confidence in the past performances of the Red Cross and a reaffirmation of allegiance to the principles which will guide its work in the future. In order to do this every man and woman in the territory of each chapter must be asked to join the Red Cross, and this will require the services of hundreds of workers. The Central Division wants at least 4,000,000 enrollments for 1920. Special stress during the campaign will be placed upon the annual one-dollar memberships in order to make the roll call an appeal to all the people.

Past Campaigns Successful. Success has attended all Red Cross activities in the Central Division in the past. In the last war fund drive this division, with a quota of $13,800,000, subscribed $21,807,602.83. In the second roll call, more than 4,000,000 were enrolled.

The money quota for the Central Division is $3,000,000. Throughout the nation, the Red Cross will enlist 20,000,000 members and raise $15,000,000 to carry on its international, national and local work.

Mrs. Seymour Makes Mark at Bowling

The Milwaukee papers of recent date are making mention of the skill of Mrs. Effie Seymour. On account of Mrs. Seymour being so well known hereabouts we are printing the two clip-pings verbatim.

"Until a year ago, Mrs. Effie Seymour, who scored 270 recently at the Arcade drives, knew nothing about the tenpin sport. Bowling was not a favorite game with her, although she had seen many women on the drives. Then for her health, she took up the game, and since that time has done wonderfully. She has rolled 279 twice and once scored 278."

"I'll get 300 yet," she confidently remarked. "In the 279 games I lost a fine hit each time in the fifth frame and if I get by that I'll make the perfect score."

Such is the proper spirit to possess."

"There's a lady bowling at the Arcade quite frequently called Mrs. Seymour. We told of a 278 score she rolled in 1918. Wednesday night the writer was surprised to watch her mow down 279. She lost a perfect hit in the tenth and another in the fifth. 'Sa-crime to have women do these stunts with the men paying fines in the Arcade leagues. 'Bout time one of these teams sign up this wonder-worker.'"

Synopsis—Stacey Wallen, first mate to the bark Upolo, in the Java sea, is the sole survivor of the crew, all victims of yellow fever. Ting Wah, Chinese sailor, last man to die, tells Wallen he and five other Chinamen were sent aboard by "Drink-House Sam," notorious character of Singapore, to kill him. This recalls to Wallen an incident of his childhood which seems connected with the confession. While delirious, Wallen enters in the ship's log the fact of his death and abandons the vessel. The ship proves to be a small tramp steamer, the Monleigh, Captain Laynton. Laynton tells Wallen the vessel had been chartered by Wallen's father to find him, the father knowing his son to be in grave danger because of a long-standing feud between the elder Wallen and a notorious pirate, Ram Gulab Singh. Laynton also informs him of the death of his father, explaining that the fatality was believed to be an accident. Wallen instantly associates his father's death with the Chinaman's confession on the Upolo. He takes over the charter of the vessel and sails for Singapore. Helen Mackay explains that she is on a visit to an aunt in Sumatra. Wallen agrees to take her there, just touching at Singapore, where he is determined to fathom the mystery of "Drink-House Sam's" enmity. While looking over his father's papers, which Sam denounces him as a liar and the crowd in the bar-room attacks him. Wallen escapes, but waits outside the place, having made up his mind to have an interview alone with Sam.

But at the expiration of that time he was stealing along the opposite side of the street in front of Drink-House Sam's again; and, grateful now for the dinginess of the surroundings and the absence of lights, slipped into a narrow alleyway, or more properly a space some three feet wide between two buildings facing Drink-House Sam's, and lay down upon the ground. By and by Drink-House Sam would go to bed, by and by that light in the barroom would go out, by and by the hangers-on would be dispersed, and by and by somewhere in that house he would get Drink-House Sam alone.

Wallen lay there, his eyes on the barroom door across the street. Occasionally someone straggled in, occasionally someone straggled out; but it was many hours, while he grew stiff and cramped, before the place began to empty out—before Drink-House Sam himself at the doorway was ejecting, with some force and more profanity, what appeared to be the last of his guests.

And then the light in the barroom was extinguished.

It was very late, but precisely what time it was Wallen did not know, only that he had lain there for an interminable space. Well, he had waited so long he could afford to wait still another hour—until Drink-House Sam and whoever else was in the place had got to bed and got to sleep. This time he would leave nothing to chance.

A light appeared suddenly in the end room on the veranda over the barroom—and Wallen's lips parted in a twisted smile. Luck again! That was Drink-House Sam's room! The man, silhouetted against the light, was opening the veranda door, for air probably. The room obviously then had two doors, for Marie had entered it from the interior of the house. Wallen smiled again. Luck was coming now in greater measure than he had dared to hope.

The light in the room went out. The minutes passed, a quarter of an hour, a half, three-quarters—and then Wallen sat up, unheeded his boots and, tying them together with their strings, slung them around his neck.

Like a shadow, a little blacker than the surrounding blackness, he was across the street, and quickly, agilely, silently, was swarming up one of the veranda posts.

He paused as he reached the rail to listen—the rail was old and it had creaked a little, not loudly, but—who knew!—it might have been heard. There was not a sound.

He swung over onto the veranda and moved cautiously forward. In a moment he was at Marie's door. Again he listened. Nothing—not a sound! Only darkness within, pitch blackness—and he could see nothing.

His face was set now, his jaws hard-clamped. His plan was simple—to choke this human devil into submission before the other could make a sound, to get his fingers first of all upon the ruffian's throat.

He was stealing into the room, feeling before him. He touched the foot of the bed and guided himself along the side of it.

Stealthily, inch by inch, he crept toward the head of the bed, reached it, his hands shot forward, lunging swiftly with the body weight behind them, closed on the man's throat—and the next instant he was staggering backward, a low cry of horror on his lips. His hands were wet—wet with warm blood!

He could not see, but he knew it was blood. Unnerved, shaken to the soul, a panic upon him, he stood there for a moment, his mind in a riot. Then, fighting desperately for self-control, he took a match from his pocket and lighted it. He closed his eyes on the sight.

Some one had done the horrible work only too well—the man's throat was only a gaping wound.

The match in Wallen's fingers still burned on, forgotten. He must get out of here. Drink-House Sam's mouth was closed forever.

He could have laughed aloud, hysterically, at the ghastly irony of that. He must get away unseen before—what was that?

There was some one else in the room. Some one moved. The match, in its dying flame, spurted up. A tall, gaunt form loomed before him. That face!

Where had he seen that face? The match dropped from his fingers. That face! It seemed to be associated with dreams of long ago. And then a voice spoke:

"Sahib, come quickly." And then he knew. It was Gunga.

CHAPTER VI.

The Vendetta.

"You, Gunga!" Wallen whispered hoarsely. "You—you did this. For God's sake, what does it mean? How did you come here? Where did you come from?"

"Sahib, there is no time to talk," the other answered gravely. "There is much danger. Come quickly. We will go back to your ship."

"Sahib, There Is No Time for Talk."

"You know about that—the ship?"

mumbled Wallen. "How—"

"Sahib," almost piteously, "come."

There followed for Wallen a space of time that he could neither estimate in duration nor of whose events in the interval he could form any concrete whole. There were dark streets and darker byways, and always before him, writhing in his loose white garb, the turbaned figure of the East Indian; and then a boat from some dark corner of a jetty and there were in it, and Gunga was rowing.

His mind had been in chaos; picturing again and again the fearsome sight in the glow of that burning match; trying to span the ten years since he had last seen this man; striving fruitfully but with a sort of maddening, irresponsible insistence, to grapple with this and that question that came and went in lightning succession; and always reverting to that black room, the sputtering match, and Drink-House Sam upon the bed again.

And now they were far out in the harbor and the water was very still, and under the moonlight it was very black, and a little ahead he could see the Monleigh; and then Gunga lay upon his oars and spoke.

"Sahib, is it true what they say—that the master is dead?"

The question in its abruptness, its significance, came like a physical shock to Wallen; but, too, it roused him, cleared his brain of its chaotic obsession, and brought him back, alert and tense, to actualities and his immediate surroundings.

"It is true," he answered slowly.

"They say aboard that it was an accident; that father accidentally shot himself while he was cleaning an automatic pistol."

Gunga's face was in the moonlight, and Wallen stared at it now and could not take his eyes away.

A whiteness came upon the swarthy features, the lips quivered tremulously like a child's; and then it seemed to be another face, distorted, an inhuman passion in the twitching muscles, the lips parted and tight-drawn across the gums, showing the teeth as a beast might show them as it crouches to spring. And then this, too, was gone, for the head was bowed over the oars, and Wallen could no longer see.

Presently Gunga looked up, but now his face was impassive.

"It is fate, sahib," he said in a low, strange way. "Allah is great. I have loved the master many years, and now I am the servant of his son. Sahib, will you pay blood with blood?"

"You mean," said Wallen, his own voice low, "that you, too, know it was not an accident—that it was murder? And that Drink-House Sam, though he was miles away, had a hand in it, and that was why you killed him?"

"Sahib," said Gunga softly, "I did not kill the man; I was too late!"

"You didn't kill him!" Wallen cried.

"Then who—?" He leaned forward and gripped the other's wrist fiercely.

"Gunga, the time has come for me to know. Why was my father murdered, and by whom? Why did he live that strange life in that old gray, stone house? Why did Drink-House Sam set a crew of Chinese murderers loose upon me? And this"—he held out the diagram of the human hand with its missing fingers—"what does this signify, and why was it slipped under the door of my cabin last night?"

In the moonlight Gunga's face was working again, and his eyes, narrowed, seemed to be searching intently the surface of the water around him.

"Among the crew, sahib," he asked, "there is a Kanaka, a tall man with great shoulders, and whose lip is scarred as though it had been cut across?"

"Yes!" The word was a sharp intake of Wallen's breath.

"Then it is true," said Gunga.

"Tonight he slipped away from the ship and swam ashore; and it may be, for Allah is all powerful, that he will swim back again. I lay hidden, sahib, where I have lain hidden for many nights, and he came and told the story; and I, Gunga, listened unknown to him, and the light was gone from my life, as he told how he had shot the master through the porthole, and thrown the pistol and those things to clean it with in upon the floor."

"And he told of you, sahib, and the strange way you came aboard the ship, and how twice he had tried to kill you, but fate had not willed it so. And at last, thinking that your death was sure, either by his hand or by one in Singapore, and thinking to torture you with fear he put the paper with the hand upon it under your cabin door."

"And other things he told as well, sahib."

"Of how the captain and the crew thought strangely of the voyage, of how, through him, they came to whisper among themselves that it was a treasure-hunt; and how, the day after you came aboard, before he knew the ship was going to Singapore, that you might not escape by going ashore at some port where they would not be waiting for you as they would at Singapore, that you might even be forced by the captain to stay on board, he pretended to have found a slip of paper with a certain latitude and longitude upon it which he made pretense you had dropped from your pocket."

"This he carried to the captain, thinking that the captain would believe the treasure within his reach and search for it on his own account in spite of you, sahib, and so keep you aboard, for the paper was the position Ram Gulab Singh had given the Kanaka, as he had also given the drawing of the hand; but the captain only took the paper and bade him hold his tongue and—"

"Wait," said Wallen quickly. "It is certain, then, that Captain Laynton and the crew had nothing to do with my father's murder—with Drink-House Sam?"

"It is certain, sahib," Gunga answered. "Though, too, there are strange things about that ship—but the tale is for another time."

"And this Ram Gulab Singh?" Wallen questioned through thin lips.

Gunga's eyes were still searching the water around him in the same intent, curious way.

"Have patience, sahib," he said. "Time does not press now. It is well that you should know all before you go aboard. The ship is to sail at once, then?"

"Yes," said Wallen.

Gunga tells of Ram Gulab Singh.

BOY DETECTIVE MAKES A RECORD

Stories of Sleuth Work Inspire Texas Youth to Remarkable Deeds.

FINDS MISSING CHILD

Starts Out to Be Second Sherlock Holmes and Finds That His Tracking and Deductive Theories Work Out Successfully.

El Paso, Tex.—The youngest successful detective in the world has been discovered!

After listening to the stories of his father about the work of the detective department, James Alexander Hill, twelve-year-old son of "Jim" Hill, jailer at the city jail, emulating the adventures of Booth Tarkington's Penrod, declared that he would become a "sleuth." Contrary to all expectations, in accordance with all tales of youthful fiction, the amateur "dick" made good at his first attempt at "tracking."

Opportunity Knocks.

When a mother told the lad that her young son of six years had disappeared, young Hill decided that this would be a good chance to try his tracking and deductive theories and started out to be a second Sherlock Holmes. He fully determined to find the missing child, even though there was no reward offered—for he was not going to be mercenary in his work, but would labor for the love of adventure.

Young Detective Hill wandered about the streets looking for the missing child. His sense of deduction told him that the boy had not been kidnapped, and he inquired of passersby if they had seen a child of the description the mother had given. He also asked every small child that he met whether or not they were lost.

Asking His Name.

At last his perseverance was rewarded and he discovered the little lad who had disappeared by asking his name and whether or not he was lost.

Returns Lost Child.

The little sleuth returned the lost child to his mother and was greatly praised for his good work, which he had done all alone without the aid of a Watson. But alas for the small detective, the child disappeared from home two days later and he was not called upon to find the lad, who later returned to his home of his own accord.

If anyone desires the services of a good twelve-year-old detective who has so well proven his mettle, he will do well to call upon young Master James Alexander Hill, Jr.

MYSTERY IN CROWS' DEATH

Oldtimers of Town Unable to Determine What Fate Overtook Feathered Robbers.

Westfield, N. Y.—Six black crows, full grown and exceedingly gloomy of men who have long robbed birds' nests, picked corn, pecked carrion, guzzled fruit and otherwise lived their allotted lives, perished miserably on the banks of Tunper creek, near this place, and no one knows what ailed them. When found two were dead, four were in throes, and two of these died in an agony of flapping wings and distended bills. The other two were so clearly in the last gasp that their lives were mercifully ended by bullets.

No one knows the cause of their trouble. They were not emaciated, nor were they wounded. It was thought that possibly they had been poisoned. Some trees have been sprinkled with insect-killing mixtures, and the crows may have swallowed the insect poison.

One surmise is that the crows were shocked by the terrific lightning of one of the recent storms. Still another guess is that they perished in a crow epidemic. It is known that rabbits, grouse, martens and other wild life are subject to epidemics.

POOR ENGLISH PLACE-NAMES WILL NOT USE GERMAN DYES

Pessimistic and in Many Cases Derogatory Appellation Given for No Apparent Reason.

For a people upon the whole cheery and possessed of much homely philosophy, the English have shown a surprising amount of pessimism in their choice of place-names, remarks a Canadian soldier now in England. Withal, their Mount Pleasants and the Coldharbors, Starvaces, Starvecrows, and so forth. But for stark pessimism the writer knows no place-name to beat that of a northern farmstead situated at the exposed end of a bleak, unkindly valley which always seems much colder and more foggy than any of the near-by heights. The name is Bad End—simply. One of its occupants was hanged, but so far as the name goes this must have been effect rather than cause, for the hanging was recent, while the name antedates the oldest inhabitant's recollections. Cackle street, Darwell Hole, Old Hole, Bugshill, Poppinghole, Frog-hole, Pigstroot, Platnix, Kitchenhour, Grandtuzel, Little Nineveh, Tulsake, Brownbread street, are a few merely old place-names recalled at random, and all to be met with in a day's march along the beautiful Sussex-Kent border country.—Montreal Herald.

Both Right.

"Phillip, I think you married me for money." "Well, dear, I believe I earned it don't you?"

Real Reason Why the Red Trousers of the French Infantryman Have Been Discarded.

The red trousers of the French army are to be no more. There is a political and economical tragedy about it with which very few people are familiar. The originator of the red trousers was Napoleon, who was prompted in his "reform" by a desire to help the native cultivation of madder root against the Dutch and Italian rivals.

But then came the Graebe-Liebigmann discovery of the alizarin dyes, and in less than ten years, between 1870 and 1878, the production of madder root in France shrank from 25,000 to 500 tons, and then it disappeared. This was a great German victory. Nevertheless, the army trousers continued to be dyed red, only this time the dyes had to be imported from Germany. It evidently required a great war to put an end to this humiliation.

A Salutary Lesson.

"You've been up in an airplane?" "Yes," replied the prominent citizen, "and it did me a lot of good."

"How was that?" "At an elevation of 7,000 feet in the air for the first time in a long and active career I realized how little I really amounted to."

OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS

Science says that old age begins with weakened kidneys and digestive organs. This being true, it is easy to believe that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

For over 200 years GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been relieving the weakness and disability due to advancing years. It is a standard old-time home remedy and needs no introduction. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil is enclosed in colorless, tasteless capsules containing about 5 drops each. Take them as you would a pill, with a swallow of water. The oil stimulates the kidney action and enables the organs to throw off the poisons which cause premature old age. New life and strength increase as you continue the treatment. When completely restored continue taking a capsule or two each day. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules will keep you in health and vigor and prevent a return of the disease. Do not wait until old age or disease have settled down for good. At the first sign that your kidneys are not working properly, go to your druggist and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Money refunded if they do not help you. Three sizes. But remember to ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. In sealed packages.

GREAT SECRET OUT AT LAST
Observing Intellect Has Discovered How the Brain That Names Sleeping Cars Works.

I used to be awed, writes Inobetta, at the thought of the intellectuality of the man who names the Pullman cars. To what storehouse of classical or historical lore did this mentality have access, that he could exhumate therefrom such names—names that seemed to mean something, but yet just eluded analysis? I used to think I'd like to meet that bird.

But I've pegged him at last! He's no giant intellect at all. He's just a pathological specimen—one of these wrong-foot cases the medical journals have been discussing lately, whose cerebral or spinal connections seem to be crossed. Their handwriting goes from right to left—it's called "mirror writing." Their co-ordinating mechanism is constantly in reverse gear. And how do I know that the nomenclator of Pullman cars is one of these? Simply thus:

The sleeper in which I rode from Cincinnati to Atlanta the other day was named "Kilmoc!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"There's a Reason"

Holiday Fun With Shadows for Youngsters

By A. NEELY HALL

Every boy likes to give home entertainments, and probably the best time of the year is right now during the holidays when grandmother and grandfather have come to visit, and an appreciative audience is at hand. There are so many things for a boy to do during this vacation, however, that there is little time to prepare an entertainment, so I shall show you how to give a shadow exhibition, as this can be arranged in a short time. It requires only a few minutes to get the knack of shadow making, and after you have tried out the forms in the accompanying illustrations you will find it easy to devise others. The shadows must be cast upon a sheet, and the audience must be seated on one side of this, and the operator stand on the other side. It is best to hang the sheet in a doorway so the light by which the shadows are made can be confined to the screen, because the room in which the audience are seated must be dark. By hanging a dark cloth over the upper and lower portions of the doorway the area of the picture screen can be reduced to just the size necessary, and the covered lower portion will conceal the shadow of the boy performer's body (Fig. 1). The light for projecting shadows must be placed about five feet in back of the screen.

Animal Shadows.

Figs. 1 and 2 show a rabbit shadow, and how the hands are held to produce it. Interlock your little fingers, then slide the back of your left hand over on to the back of your right hand. Form the nose and head by doubling back the first finger of the left hand, and the ears by extending the second and third fingers, and extend the thumb and first three fingers of the right hand for the feet. By wiggling the first finger the rabbit can be made to nibble.

The alligator shadow (Fig. 3) is a one-hand shadow made with the aid of two pieces of cardboard notched along their edges to form teeth (Fig. 4). Fig. 5 shows how the teeth are held between the extended fingers, and how the alligator's eye is formed by light passing through an opening between the first and second fingers. With your free hand give the alligator things to eat. His eating will greatly amuse your audience. With modifications, a snake's head can be formed with your arm extended for its body.

Fig. 5 shows a wolf's head, and Fig. 6 a donkey's. Both are formed by placing the palms of the hands together, with thumbs up for ears, the first fingers drawn in for the forehead, and the little fingers dropped for the lower jaw. These shadows are a good example of how different figures are produced by extending or bending the fingers.

Duck or Santa Head.
The duck's head (Fig. 7) is a simple one-hand shadow. By dropping and raising the little finger the duck appears to open and close its bill. It can be made to snap at flies very naturally. Santa Claus' profile (Fig. 8) requires a cardboard hat (Fig. 9). The first finger forms the nose, the second and third fingers the lips, and a piece of cotton held between the third and fourth fingers makes the whiskers.

PRETTY CHRISTMAS GIFTS THAT ANY GIRL CAN MAKE.

By DOROTHY PERKINS.

Most of the material required for the gifts in the illustrations can be picked up at home, which will be appreciated by every girl who has many to remember at Christmas time and small means to procure gifts with. Besides, these gifts are quickly made.

A Fancywork Basket.
You will not make a mistake in providing a handy workbasket like that in Fig. 1, for mother. Its end pockets for needles, thread, scissors and other small articles, are constructed outside of the basket, which leaves the entire inside space for work. A grape-basket, or any basket of about its size, may be used. Figure 2 shows the start of an end pocket. Cut a piece of cardboard of the shape of A (Fig. 3), and hinge it to the basket bottom by means of strip B. With both pockets started, cover the basket with cretonne, running it around the cardboard ends to form sides to the pockets (Fig. 1). Conceal the handle by wrapping a strip of cretonne around it.

A Whisk-Broom Holder.
Either a man or woman will appreciate this convenient article. A stationary box forms its foundation.

Such a box usually has the proportions shown in Fig. 2. The first thing to do is to remove one end, and enough of the top, bottom and sides, to make the box square. The dotted line in Fig. 2 shows where to cut. The second step is to remove a side adjoining that just removed, cut away the top to the shape of the finished front, and cut away one corner to form the open bottom of the rack. This cutting is shown by dotted lines in Fig. 3, and Fig. 4 shows the pieces thus prepared. Sew together what remains of the box and cover, then conceal the surfaces with cretonne and fasten a small bow and loop of ribbon through a hole punched through the upper corner of the back, for a hanger.

A Twine Holder.
This unique holder may be used for either crochet-cotton or twine. It requires the head of a small doll (Fig. 2), and a small "cat" basket (Fig. 3). The doll's head must be fastened to the basket in such a way that it can be removed easily for putting a new ball inside of the basket, so the best method of attaching it is with bands of ribbon, passing these around the doll's neck and shoulders, and around the basket, and tying the ends in bows. Cut a strip of pretty colored silk of the proportions shown in Fig. 4, run a thread through a hem made in one edge, for a gathering string, and by means of this thread gather the silk about the doll's head to form a ruffle and sleeves. Add a neck ribbon. Figure 1 shows how the twine or crochet cotton is pulled out through one of the sleeve openings.

FLU CAUSED PRESIDENT WILSON'S SICKNESS

Physicians claim that President Wilson is suffering from neurasthenia or nervous exhaustion. This, they claim, is the after effect of an attack of influenza which he had last April, while he was in Paris attending the Peace conference. There are hundreds of thousands of people today who are still suffering some bad effect from last year's attack of influenza.

Doctors are agreed that the Flu is coming back this Fall, and now that cooler weather is here, they are afraid it will break out any time. Even if one recovers from the Flu, the after effects are terrible. The only sane thing to do is to prevent the Flu.

Influenza can be prevented; last year's results prove that. As a preventive for Flu, Turpo has been a pronounced success. Turpo is an effective germicide, combining the old-fashioned remedies of turpentine (which has always been known as the best home germicide), camphor and menthol in a pure mineral base. These ingredients have long been recognized as effective germicides, as well as having really wonderful qualities in relieving colds and congestions. Snuff a little Turpo up the nostrils several times a day, and the Flu germs will have little chance of getting a lodging and breeding place. Many physicians and hospitals use and recommend Turpo.

The fact that there have been cases of "flu" already reported makes it important that you prepare now. Buy a thirty cent jar of Turpo, on hand, and use as directed. Last year druggists could not supply the demand. Remember that Turpo is a preventive, not a cure for influenza. Take care of yourself.—Adv.

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER.

Stop a minute and think what it means to say that "Green's August Flower" has been a household remedy all over the civilized world for more than half a century. No higher praise is possible and no better remedy can be found for constipation, intestinal troubles, torpid liver and the depressed feeling that accompanies such disorders. It is most valuable for indigestion or nervous dyspepsia and liver trouble, coming up of food, palpitation of heart, and many other symptoms. A few doses of August Flower will relieve you. It is a gentle laxative. Ask your druggist. Sold in all civilized countries.—Adv.

When Nervous and Rundown

Advance, Ill.—"After a hard and serious illness I was restored to a perfectly healthy condition through Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription which I took as a tonic. It proved to be such a splendid tonic that I have taken it many times since then, whenever I have been nervous and run-down, and it has never failed to strengthen and build me up in health."

"I can also speak just as highly of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' as a blood purifier and a medicine that is safe to give to little children. When one of my daughters was only a year old she had scrofulous sores all over her head. I gave her Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and it healed up every blemish and her hair grew nice and thick. She has grown to womanhood and has never had any return of blood disorder of any sort since that time. I give the 'Discovery' all the credit due it for this cure and take pleasure in recommending it."—Mrs. Etta Lewis, care Mrs. P. M. Roberts, R. R. 1, Box 31.

Quincy, Ill.—"I am glad to tell what Dr. Pierce's Anuric (for the kidneys) has done for me; it is a fine remedy. I had been a great sufferer with my back and hip for years, but 'Anuric' did wonders for me. I have taken two small bottles and now tell every one what a good medicine it is."—Mrs. Stella Steckdall, 1532 Jefferson St.

To Help Roumanian Children.
Queen Marie of Roumania has drafted every housewife, owner of a moving picture theater, storekeeper, hotel owner and landlord in her kingdom into a national army to contribute to the support of the Roumanian Children's Relief association, which has been organized to continue permanently the work of child feeding begun by the American relief administration.

In an appeal just issued to her people, described in a cable received from Mr. Hoover in Paris at the offices of the administration, 42 Broadway, Queen Marie has requested that all Roumanian families refrain from eating dinner one day each month and contribute the amount thus saved to the funds of child relief.

The queen has requested the various classes among her subjects to contribute to the child bureau in the following manner: All stores and hotels, one-tenth of their net proceeds one day each month; all landlords owning business buildings, one-fourth of their net proceeds one day each month; all banks on an equivalent basis and churches of all denominations a share of their collections one Sunday each month.

Had to Split Up.
Little Jack, very much impressed with his first night in a berth on a Pullman sleeper, said: "Why, grandma, the flats were so small we couldn't all live together. Mamma and I slept in the first flat, and Daddy in the second flat."

All He Wanted.
There was a plate of cake on the table and Guy's grandmother asked him which piece he would have. "I'll take any piece so long as it's a good big one," was his unselfish reply.

Thing That Really Counts.
The great thing in this world is not so much where we are, but in what direction we are moving.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

The past year has seen a large increase in the number of Electric Washing Machines, Electric Irons and Vacuum Cleaners in use in homes.

The reason is easily understood. They are labor savers.

The Washing Machine does the work. You need only watch it. The Vacuum Cleaner demands only that you guide it. No preparation is required when you use the Electric Iron other than to connect it to the nearest socket.

A big reception and dinner was given to welcome home the following returned soldiers, sailors and marines of the Ev. Lutheran congregation on Thanksgiving: Otto Stenzel, Arthur Voss, Walter Bernhoff, Carl Gauger, Herman Schultz, August Hoepke, Hubert Schenning, Clarence Holdorf, Henry Gandt, Geo. Hoepke, and Floyd Hanneman. Rev. Jedele held special church services at 10 o'clock and the dinner was at the Lutheran hall.

The Ev. Lutheran church formed a beautiful setting for the wedding ceremony at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon of Louise Wienke and Martin Schenning who were united in marriage by Rev. S. Jedele. Two little flower girls, Hel'n Schenning and Evelyn Voxpael, dressed in white silk and carrying wonderful baskets of white carnations preceded the party up the aisle. They were closely followed by the attendants, Helen Wehke, Hubert Schenning, Ida Bach and Geo. Schmalfeldt. Both bridesmaids were in white georgette and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The bride, dressed very lovely in white georgette over a hat, a long flowing veil and carried a huge bouquet of white chrysanthemums, was given away at the foot of the altar by her father Charles Wehke. The plain gold ring ceremony was used and after an impressive sermon by Rev. Jedele the happy couple and their friends departed for the home where an elaborate wedding dinner was served. Both young people have grown up in this community and have a host of friends to wish them well. Mrs. Schenning was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wehke of Silver Lake, and the groom a son of Mrs. Wm. Schenning of Silver Lake. Following a wedding trip to Milwaukee and Minnesota they will make their home at Silver Lake, where Mr. Schenning will engage in farming.

WOMEN WORKERS FROM 34 NATIONS ASKED TO CONGRESS

First International Conference in History of World Opens at Washington, D. C., October 23.

NEW RESPONSIBILITIES TO BE DISCUSSED

National Women's Trade Union League of America to Act as Hostess—Belgium and Great Britain Send Distinguished Women as Advisors.

Working women from all parts of the globe will gather in Washington on October 23 at the invitation of the National Women's Trade Union League of America to take part in the first International Congress of Working Women ever held in the history of the world.

An official call to the conference has been sent to labor organizations in thirty-four countries asking that they send delegates to the conference. Each country is entitled to ten delegates and to ten votes on the floor of the congress; also to one member on the executive committee. So far Finland, Czechoslovakia, Poland, France, Japan, Belgium, England, the Argentine and Canada have announced delegates for the congress, Belgium being the first to announce that Mme. Victoire Cappe, who had been chosen to serve as an advisor at the international labor conference called for October 20, would arrive in the United States in time to serve as one of the two Belgian delegates at the women's congress. Margaret Bondfield, secretary of the National Federation of Women Workers in Great Britain, who will also serve as an advisor to the British delegation at the labor conference, is coming to take her place on the floor of the Congress of Working Women.

It was Miss Bondfield who, during her visit to the United States in the spring and early summer, presented to the Women's Trade Union League, assembled in the seventh biennial convention of that organization in Philadelphia in June, the resolution of the standing committee of the Women's Industrial Organizations of England that the American League be asked to call an International Congress of Working Women to meet in the United States in the autumn. Such a conference had been previously discussed by women's labor organizations of various countries and would have been held in a European city probably had not the League of Nations society decided upon Washington as the meeting place for an international labor conference.

The committee on international relations of the Women's Trade Union League, which is in charge of the congress, has as its chairman Mrs. Raymond Robins, president of the league; Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the women's bureau of the United States department of labor; Miss Agnes Nestor, vice president of the International Glove Workers' union; Miss Julia O'Connor, president of the Telephone Operators' union, and Miss Rose Schneidermann, president of the New York Women's Trade Union League.

In discussing the congress, Mrs. Robins says: "Women must come forward now and accept their responsibilities. They can no longer have their affairs attended to by proxy. Men cannot bear the entire responsibility for the world. They must be assisted by women, and the women should come forth willingly, prepared to take up their share of the burden of seeing that things go right with the world. At the Congress of Working Women we will discuss problems affecting women which we, as women workers, are particularly able to consider, and we may recommend how conditions of the labor of women and children can be improved."

English Lenses Superior.

When aero-photography commenced to play its great part in the war, it was found that the German-made lenses would do the work of picturing from above far better than British-made lenses. But the English opticians set to work, and in a short time they produced lenses that beat the German product far and square. Captured aero-photographic apparatus during the latter part of the war showed that the lenses were inferior in quality to those made in Britain. No German-made lens has yet been found that would picture a barbed wire entanglement from a height of three miles, but the British product would, and very often did.

More in It.

Governor Stephens in a recent after-dinner speech in which he touched on the peace conference, remarked that a great many people thought a lot of money was being wasted over there. "Like the two shop girls I overheard one day:

"Said the first: "Gee, them peace conference guys take a long time to do anything. I wonder if they get paid by the hour?" "Now," retorted the other, scornfully, "they don't get paid by the hour, it's peace work, ain't it?"

GOOD RECORDS OF PIG CLUBS

Boys and Girls Improve Methods of Management and Increase the Number of Purebreds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Members of boys' and girls' pig clubs are the pioneers in introducing purebred pigs and improved methods of management in many parts of the South, where the swine industry is making unprecedented progress.

This is true in a marked degree in Georgia. Among the pig clubs, the total sum represented by the hogs and pigs in the hands of the pig club members of the state last year was almost a half million dollars. The increase in the number of purebred pigs raised by the club members in 1918 over 1917 was more than 306 per cent. The increase in profits on hogs raised in 1918 over the previous year was more than 61 per cent.

Pig clubs were carried on in connection with school work in many localities. Fourteen school pigs in one county, raised on the waste from puplis lunch baskets, sold for $500 at an auction sale. Twenty-two schools in another county raised 22 purebred hogs last winter on waste from the pupils' dinner baskets. One town of 2,000 people produced 35,000 pounds of pork from pigs raised in back yards. The white boys of the same county raised $12,340 of meat hogs, and the negro boys $2,134.85.

An all-cotton county reports an increase of 5,000 hogs in 1918. Fifty-seven pig club members in one county raised 250 head of registered Duroc-Jerseys. The amount invested was $2,800. At an auction sale, 80 of the surplus pigs were sold, and the returns from the sale, together with the value of the remaining hogs, represented $7,800.

Pig-club members had a prominent part in the swine exhibits at the two fairs held in the state and carried off many prizes. Of the 2,105 hogs exhibited at the Southeastern fair, 345 were owned and raised by pig-club boys who won 81 ribbons in the open ring. Three of the prizes were junior champions. Of the 850 hogs exhibited at the state fair, 87 were owned and raised by pig-club boys who won 93 ribbons in the open ring and $272 in prizes. One of the ribbons was a junior champion. With 28 club pigs one county won 27 ribbons and prizes amounting to $817.50, including the state championship.

The state pig-club champion was the 11-year-old son of a small farmer who bought his piglet at an auction sale for $37.50. At the end of the contest this hog was worth $300. In one county six pig-club boys, who started in their club work with one small pig each, will start hog farms this year. Three of these boys already have their hogs and land.

PEDIGREE IS NOT ESSENTIAL

Officials of Department of Agriculture Are Trying to Eliminate Inferior Animals.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Thousands of purebred scrubs are scattered through this country, according to hog-extension men of the United States Department of Agriculture, who are devoting their efforts to eliminating inferior pedigreed animals. This, they say, applies to all kinds of live stock, but is perhaps more general in the hog industry. Pedigrees are necessary and valuable to the hog breeder, yet the pedigree is the means of fooling a lot of farmers, particularly those who are about to start into the pure-bred hog business and who have not had enough experience in judging to select animals of good standard type. Buyers should not be contented simply with pure-bred animals, but should see in addition that the animals they are about to purchase have good quality, say the department hog specialists.

RED CROSS AIDS AILING SOLDIERS

Organization Asked by Government to Seek Out Disabled Ex-Service Men.

FREE HOSPITAL CARE GIVEN

United States Pays Compensation While Treatments Are Administered in Public Health Institutions.

The American Red Cross has been asked by the United States government to use its efficient organization to seek out disabled and ill ex-service men, and to try to induce them to accept the government's offer to provide free treatment in public service hospitals, and compensation while the treatment is being administered.

The government estimates that there are fully 50,000 men in this country who are unable to work at full capacity because of wounds or disease contracted in the line of duty who should be receiving this treatment. So far only about 4,000 men have applied for such service.

A statement issued from the national headquarters of the Red Cross in Washington shows that a great misapprehension exists among the discharged men regarding the government's plan.

"Due to misunderstandings and misapprehension a surprising number of disabled service men are scattered throughout the country not knowing the benefits which are still theirs," the statement read.

"Back to the hospital" after he has donned "civies" and tried to keep going at civilian occupation is about the hardest order a soldier wants to hear. Acceptance of the government offer does not mean a return to service. The hospitals are civilian institutions. They are separate institutions, and are not connected in any way with the army or navy.

"The Red Cross is constantly discovering men who, through ignorance or prejudice, are losing the advantages of this wonderful service. So effective has this work become that the government has asked the Red Cross to make this a part of its regular relief work. All that is necessary is for the ex-service man to apply to the nearest Red Cross chapter. Arrangements will be made there for him to enter one of these hospitals after examination by a district public health officer, and if his trouble is the result of service with the army or navy he will be given transportation and admittance to a public service hospital.

"The Red Cross is now engaged in maintaining a program of recreation, occupational therapy, meeting the problems arising in the homes of disabled men, household and legal difficulties and affording many miscellaneous services to keep the men who are in the hospitals contented with their lot."

This work of the Red Cross is one of the important branches outlined for its post war work and a part of the funds raised in the Third Red Cross Roll Call, November 2 to 11, will be devoted to this purpose.

LOANS $50,000 TO SOLDIERS.

Loans totalling approximately $50,000 have been advanced to about 4,000 disabled soldiers by the American Red Cross for personal use while these war veterans were adjusting their affairs with the federal board for vocational training. These loans are in no sense looked upon as charity either by the soldiers or the Red Cross, the latter considering this bit of financial assistance a part of its war obligation.

Red Cross liaison officers are in touch with all the district officers of the vocational board and the public health service. These Red Cross men are able to help the soldiers when the government check miscarries, during the interval between approval for schools and placement in school, when subsistence and transportation are needed by those denied training, and under various other conditions.

HUGE OVERSEA SHIPMENTS MADE BY RED CROSS.

Two million crates, bundles or barrels, weighing 218,310,000 pounds were shipped by the American Red Cross to twenty-one countries from ten ports in the United States between April 1, 1917 and July 1, 1919, according to reports sent to national headquarters in Washington. This tremendous volume of business was shipped across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans during the war and after the signing of the armistice from New York, Baltimore, Boston, Montreal, Newport News, New Orleans, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Seattle. In addition to this great store of supplies, the Red Cross purchased supplies in the countries where it operated, both for the soldiers and afflicted civilians.

"Our patriotism should stand test of peace as well as war. This is a necessary work to be performed before the American Red Cross withdraw from Europe," President Wilson.
